The minutes of the last regular session were read and confirmed.

On motion of coun. Boyes and Reeve Graham, Chief of Police Barrett was instructed to visit all the back yards adjacent to the business section of the town and have all rubbish of an inflammable nature cleaned up and removed.

The streets committee reported that they had investigated the application of Mr. Frank Ford for a walk leading to his residence and recommended that a cement walk be laid from Dundas street south to Mill street, and then west to Mr. Ford's residence but owing to the lateness of the season the work be postponed till next year and that this report be brought to the attention of next year's council. Report adopted.

On motion the old board walk on Centre street north from the G. T. Railway was ordered removed and replaced with a cinder walk.

Moved by coun. Steacy, seconded by coun. Lowry, that the Fire, Water & Light committee be instructed to procure figures showing the cost of operating the Napanee Waterworks and also its gross revenues. Carried.

PICTON AND NAPANEE COLLEGIATE TEAMS MEET

The annual football and basketball games between Napanee Collegiate and Picton Collegiate Institutes were played in Napanee on Saturday afternoon, and resulted in Napanee being victorious in football and Picton in basketball.

The girls' basketball games, both junior and senior, were played on the school campus and Picton won them both by large scores. The Picton girls had better combination and Napanee could not "bust it up," and as a result Picton were able to score almost when they wanted to. The or of Picton.

Scores were 15-4 and 17-6 in favor of Picton.

The boys' football matches were played in the Napanee Driving Park. In the junior game the Napanee team, although outweighed, were better slicker and what opportunity they had they took advantage of them. The lone tally was scored by Ball, Napanee winning the junior game by 1-0.

The senior game was called at 3 p.m. and a large crowd of rooters were on hand to cheer the boys along. The seniors were evenly matched, but the blue and yellow were a little the faster and broke away for good runs. Napanee scored the first goal as the result of a penalty kick. Babcock, the Napanee captain, made a penalty on the kick and completely fooled the Picton goaler. In the second half Picton had a grand chance to even the score, a penalty in Napanee goal. Judson saved a sure goal by a grand stop and cleared the ball away from the danger zone. Napanee made the game safe when Daly scored on a pretty pass from Perry, the diminutive right wing player. Perry played a most useful game and with Gleason made a strong right wing. Daly and Paul were also conspicuous. The return game will be played in Picton next Saturday.

One cent will buy a two dollar guaranteed hot water bottle at Wallace's one cent sale. Remember the dates, Oct. 30, 31st, Nov. 1st.

CANADA'S OBLIGATIONS TO HER SOLDIERS

Financial assistance is getting back to normal earning capacity in civil life was required by the soldiers on their return from the war. No one questioned their right to receive it from the grateful people for whose liberty they had fought.

A gratuity was granted by the Canadian Government to each man, based on the length of time of his service. Payment of this gratuity absorbed many millions of dollars of the money subscribed to the Victory Loan of 1918. There are still thousands of authorized gratuities to be paid and they will be looked after from the proceeds of the Victory Loan of 1919.

It is timely to point out that more than half of the money realized through last year's Victory Loan was expended in regard to the soldiers. About $312,000,000 was employed in paying them, getting them safely back to Canada and providing allowances for them and their dependents. This with maintenance of the medical services and the vocational training absorbed the bulk of the great outlay. These items still call for substantial expenditures and may be considered among the main reasons why a most generous subscription must be made to the present loan.

Do your share. The Victory Loan is a safe and sane investment for any amount.

BUSINESS NEARLY ENDED.

House of Commons Will Prorogue This Week.

OTTAWA, Oct. 7.—Apart from unexpected developments Parliament is almost certain to prorogue on Friday or Saturday next. Business before the House can be disposed of without much trouble, but matters affecting soldiers' civil re-establishment are still before a special committee, and another special committee will this week commence consideration of the bill providing for the reclassification of the civil service. It is stated that the expectation of Hon. A. K. MacLean, who introduced this bill in the House, and the Civil Service Commission, is that it will be dealt with this session. As it is considered impossible for the committee to deal with the detailed schedules of reclassification the presumption is that it will pass the general clauses of the bill, approve the principle of classification and leave the working out of any further modifications to the board, which, under the direction of Mr. Clarence Jamieson, one of the Civil Service commissioners, has been working on the revision of the classification as it was tabled in the Commons towards the end of the regular session. The soldiers' committee is expected to complete the taking of evidence within two or three days and make a report to the House before prorogation.

Revenge Is Motive.

BARI, Italy, Oct. 7.—The report that the Italian steamer Epiro, with 200 Italian troops and other passengers aboard, was fired upon by Jugo-Slavs from Rondoni Island, near Cattaro, is confirmed. Only a few shots were fired against the steamer, then only about 100 yards from the shore, but a cavalry soldier, Eugenio Ballani, is in the hospital here with bullet wounds in his left shoulder and leg to test the truth of the incident. The Epiro, which was on its way to Cattaro when fired upon, remained the scene of the shooting upon leaving that port, escorted by a French torpedoboat, but there was no further shooting. According to reports circulating here the Jugo-Slavs attacked the steamer in revenge, because during the war a squadron of airplanes commanded by d'Annunzio dropped bombs on Fort Mamuluan, Rondo Island.

Combined Profit on Sugar.

CALGARY, Oct. 7. — The sugar probe here Saturday developed the fact that the Hudson Bay Company here was making a combined profit wholesale and retail of 22 per cent. on the sugar it handled. This it argued, was not abnormal, being a combined profit for two handlings and could not justly be compared with retailers' profits on sugar.

CATTLE MARKETS

UNION STOCK YARDS.

TORONTO, Oct. 7.—With 6065 cattle on the market yesterday, the quality of the cattle generally was medium and common. What few choice butcher cattle were here were readily picked up at good prices.

There was a good demand for canners and choice butcher cows, medium and common butcher cows being a little slow of sale.

Bologna bulls sold at steady prices around 6c to 7c. For stockers and feeders there is a very fair demand, for breedy steers between 750 lbs. and upwards. Good cows sold at from $100 to $165, and ordinary cows were rather slow of sale.

Considering the quality of the cattle and the numbers, the market was very active and prices satisfactory in nearly all classes. More butchers showing fat and quality would have sold at good prices if they had been here.

CHICAGO LIVE STOCK.

Catarrhal Deafness Cannot Be Cured
by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure catarrhal deafness, and that is by a constitutional remedy. Catarrhal Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result. Unless the inflamation can be reduced and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever. Many cases of deafness are caused by catarrh, which is an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces. Hall's Catarrh Cure acts through the blood on the mucous surfaces of the system.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Catarrhal Deafness that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Circulars free. All Druggists, 75c.

NEW CRISIS IN TURKEY

Sultan's Cabinet Has Resigned From Office.

Allies Are Puzzled by the Progress of Events In Constantinople, and It Is Believed That the Revolution Was Staged by the Men Who Have Intrigued to Secure Power In Land of Crescent.

LONDON, Oct. 7.—The resignation of the Turkish Cabinet, headed by Damad Ferid Pasha, Grand Vizier and Minister of Foreign Affairs, has been accepted by the Sultan.

While press reports from Paris indicate that the other Peace Conference officials are gravely concerned over the revolutionary movement, started at Anatolia against the Central Government at Constantinople, reports from the Turkish capital cast some doubt on the genuineness of the movement. That the movement has grown rapidly is certain. If it is a genuine revolution it may result in the dismemberment of what is left of the Turkish Empire.

An official report from Constantinople causes some doubt as to whether the movement in Anatolia was not deliberately staged by Turkish leaders in the hope of securing a more speedy and better peace settlement. After speaking of the spread of the revolutionary movement, and the arrest of certain dignitaries, the report says: "In spite of all these signs of marked hostility between the revolutionists and the Central Government, close observers of Turkish officials are critical of the attitude of the Government and doubtful of its sincerity.

"Most of the heads of the movement were sent into Anatolio from Constantinople by the Cabinet of Ferid Pasha and by Rerid Pasha himself. It was in Constantinople that the movement itself was organized. Reinforcements and ammunition have been and are still being sent from the capital. Some officials have openly adhered to the movement. The pretended confidential contents of numerous telegrams are mysteriously divulged.

"All this would seem to indicate that the Government itself has its heart in the movement. Possibly the situation is a theatrical creation, such as the Turks are accustomed to stage, and which pretends to reveal the movement a spontaneous and essentially patriotic revolt.

"The Allied powers, alarmed by the developments, have decided to extend the occupation of Turkish territories, and fresh reinforcements are being sent into the interior by rail, while other contingents are landing at Samsounda."

"Now, sir," broke in the culprit, "I have lived in the town for twenty years and if the head constable don't know me yet, isn't that a character for you?"

BRITISH STRIKE ENDS

Dramatic Ending to Crisis in Old Land.

It Has Been Decided That the Present Wage Scale Will Be Continued for Twelve Months Instead of Six —Stand of Transport Workers Against Sympathetic Strike Made Settlement Possible.

LONDON, Oct. 7.—With dramatic suddenness in the quiet of the London Sunday afternoon, it was announced to a knot of people waiting in Down Street that the great railway strike, which appeared to have brought the country almost to the brink of revolution, was settled, and that the strikers would resume work, as quickly as possible.

The terms of the settlement are in the nature of a compromise. The National Union of Railwaymen agrees to call off the strike, and the Government consents to a renewal of the negotiations, the continuance of the existing wage scale for another year, instead of six months, as previously offered, and the establishment of a minimum wage of 51 shillings while the cost of living is 110 per cent. above the pre-war level.

The settlement was the result of a long conference Sunday between a trade union delegation, including representatives of the Railwaymen's Union, and Premier Lloyd George and Andrew Bonar Law in the famous conference room in Downing Street. Prior to this there was a Cabinet meeting.

It is conceded on all sides that the settlement is the outcome of the moderate but determined efforts of the executive of the Transport Workers' Federation and men like Arthur Henderson and John Robert Clynes, who throughout have set their faces steadily against the idea of a sympathetic strike until every possible avenue of mediation had been explored.

James Henry Thomas, secretary of the National Union of Railwaymen, had a tremendous ovation Sunday when he appeared to address some five thousand of the men at Albert Hall. It was an impressive moment, when, after the hurricane of cheering subsided, the audience rose and sang, "Abide With Me."

Secretary Thomas, in the course of his speech, paid a warm tribute to the "great and mighty part" the Premier had played in assisting them to reach what Mr. Thomas would not claim as victory, but an "honorable settlement." It was the Premier who had invited the deputation to see him, and there had been no question whatever of asking the men to surrender.

Mr. Thomas claimed that this had been the greatest fight of organised workers in history, and that it had been conducted solidly, loyally, peaceably and orderly, and in this, he believed, the railwaymen had given an example to the world.

Rumors were current Sunday night that Sir Eric Geddes, Minister of Transport, had resigned, but according to an authorized statement, the rumors were unfounded. The conference of trade unions called for Tuesday, and other arrangements contingent upon the continuance of the strike, have been abandoned, but it is stated that the organization for the formation of citizen guards will not be interfered with.

The conference in Downing Street was a very friendly affair. All present seemed to anticipate a settlement, and after Premier Lloyd George had explained the new terms He left the delegates to discuss them. When the luncheon hour arrived, the Premier suggested that all stay, instead of separating. raid was made on the Downing Street commissariat, and, finding it equal to the needs of the large party, a joint meal followed, the Premier's secretaries carrying the joint and assisting in carving it, while jokes flew around the table.

The conference was then resumed, and at its conclusion Secretary Thomas rose and addressing the Premier said he could not allow the momentous meeting to close without expressing the appreciation of the delegates at the statesmanlike and impartial way the Premier and Mr. Bonar Law had conducted the negotiations and their patient consideration.

The Prime Minister acknowledged the compliment in a genial speech, admitting that the delegates had met all arguments in an open-minded and conciliatory manner. He expressed the hope that all labor organizations would approach questions concerning their welfare in the same spirit; they would then enter upon a new era of industrial peace and prosperity.

The official terms of settlement of the railwaymen's strike are as follows:—

1. Work shall be resumed immediately.

2. Negotiations will be resumed on the understanding that they shall be completed before the end of the year.

3. Wages will be stabilized at the present level until Sept. 30, 1920, and at any time after Aug. 1 they may be reviewed in the light of circumstances then existing.

4. No adult railwayman in Great Britain shall receive less than 51 shillings per week while the cost of living is 110 per cent. above the pre-war level.

5. The Railway Union agree that the men will work harmoniously with the men who returned to work or who remained at work during the strike. Nor shall there be any victimization of strikers.

6. Arrears of wages will be paid on resumption of work.

ROYALTY IN CANADA

Belgian Monarchs Spend Day at Niagara Falls.

The Visit Was an Historic Occasion as It Was the First Time That a King and Queen Had Set Foot Upon the Soil of Our Country—Cordial Welcome Accorded the Visitors.

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont., Oct. 7.—For the first time in history, reigning royalty set foot in Canada Monday. His Majesty Albert of Belgium, Queen Elizabeth and Prince Leopold were visitors on Canadian soil at Niagara Falls, for some three-quarters of an hour, during which time King Albert conveyed personally to the people of Canada, the gratitude of the Belgian nation for the gallant defence made by Canada's sons at Ypres, and the brilliant victory of the second Mons.

Feted and dined as they have been during their visit, the Royal party desired to make this a day free from ceremony and the restrictions of a set program. The visit to Canada was scheduled for between 11 and 12. Owing to His Majesty's desire for the party to visit "Cave of the Winds" and take the trip on "the Maid of the Mist," it was 12.15 before the Canadian party, who waited at the centre of the Flag Deck, International Bridge, saw the royal party come on to the bridge from the American embankment.

The reception was most informal. N. W. Rowell expressing the welcome of the Canadian Government and tendering the regrets of the Governor-General of Canada at not being present, owing to his absence in the West. After shaking hands with the party, Hon. Mr. Rowell presented to the King and Queen, Mrs. Rowell, Brig.-Gen. Elmsley, Brig.-Gen. C. H. Mitchell and Mrs. Mitchell, Gen. Hill, and Mrs. Hill, Sir Joseph Pope, Dr. Grant, chairman of the Niagara Park Commission, Major E. W. Wright, Major H. P. Stephens, of Niagara Falls, and Mrs. Stephens.

Countess de Chimay recognized an old acquaintance in Brig.-Gen. Mitchell, and chatted vivaciously with him for some minutes.

Notable was the action of J. M. Nye, of the United States State Department, who loudly ordered the American members of the party not to cross into Canada. The Americans in their motors were lined up ready to proceed when Mr. Nye jumped on the running board of Rear-Admiral Long's care and ordered the Americans back and after some discussion the American officers and members of the party returned to Niagara Falls, N.Y. The Belgian party, who by this time had entered Canadian motor cars, were somewhat nonplussed by this action of Mr. Nye who previously had charge of the party.

The Canadian delegation took their guests to Table Rock, where the Queen was quite interested in the view of the Falls.

There was great anxiety among Canadians to obtain snapshots of the royal guests. In answer to a request the Queen laughingly replied: "One moment," and unwound the heavy veil which encircled her face and hat, and thus stood with her husband and son while numerous cameras clicked.

After the reception on the International Bridge the party motored to the home of the chairman of the Victoria Park Commission, Dr. H. Y. Grant, where a splendid view of the falls was obtained.

It was the royal party's play-day, and the King, who visited the Falls as a boy, insisted on showing the Queen and prince sights that have lived in his memory. This resulted in the official program being changed in many respects to suit the wishes of His Majesty. The Queen was greatly delighted with the beauties of Niagara. The party in motors visited the well-known points of interest on Luna and Goat Islands, where the Queen took numerous snapshots. On Goat Island the King insisted on a visit to the Cave of the Winds, and some dozen or more of the party saw the Falls from below and behind.

CANADA EARNED A VOTE.

One American Realizes Our Part In the War.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 7.—Denying that Great Britain and her colonies would have six votes in the League of Nations to one for the United States, Senator McCumber, Republican, North Dakota, charged in the Senate on Monday that Senators advocating the amendment by Senator Johnson, proposing to limit the voting power of the British colonies were fanning popular prejudice with an unfounded appeal.

As a substitute for the Johnson amendment, Senator McCumber urged his proposed reservation to exclude British colonies from participating in the league in disputes involving the Mother Country or each other. Senator McCumber said the argument of Senator Johnson and other supporters of the Johnson amendment as to Britain's voting power was "too absurd to be true," and asked why France, Italy and other nations did not raise objections to "putting their heads in the lion's mouth."

"Great Britain cannot and will not control the vote of Canada," Senator McCumber said. "I would like to put this question straight to the American people: "Has not Canada, a fully governing, independent dominion, earned by sacrifices, in blood and treasure through four years of this bloody war, a right to a seat in the assembly that would give her a voice in effect equal to that of Haiti, Hedjaz, Honduras, Liberia, Nicaragua, Panama, Peru, Salvador or Venezuela?"

Two more large seizures of liquor were made by the authorities.

PROPHECIES COMING TRUE.

H. G. Wells Told of Stowaway In His "War In the Air."

A report states that the first large airship to cross the Atlantic carried a stowaway in the person of W. W. Ballantyne, a rigger, who was notified that three of the crew were to be dropped from the log book and that he was among the number. He was a prize-fighter before he enlisted and had worked on the preparation of the great airship for the journey. H. G. Wells in his "The War in the Air," which was published in 1908, builds his romance around a type of machine which more nearly resembles the modern superplanes than the gas-suspended dirigible of the R-34 type. But in recounting the experiences of his imaginative crew and ships he works a romance around one feature which has come true with a startling degree of detail and that is the portion relating to the above-mentioned Rigger Ballantyne, who climbed on board as a stowaway. The story is worked around the adventures of a character named Bert Smallway, who boarded a great naval liner that belonged to a former central European power, and in the introduction of the stowaway idea Mr. Wells has been a true prophet in his forecast of the early trans-Atlantic flights.

The success of the R-34 is a realization of many words uttered in prophecy, but the details are different to the best-known of these, which is contained in the opening of the "Night Mail" by Rudyard Kipling. In this piece of remi-prophetic fiction the author details a flight of a great trans-Atlantic flyer which "makes" Quebec from London in twelve hours; hence the title, the Night Mail." A comparison of the fictitious ship with the R-34 is wonderful. Kipling paints his picture to include a ship with compartment gasbags, and even brings in a mysterious ray, which might correspond to the recently discovered method of separating helium from the other component parts of the atmosphere. He also lays great stress on the rescue of the crew from an aerial freighter at a height of over a mile and vividly describes the sinking of the doomed ship into the Atlantic below. It is probably only lack of competition that prevented the R.34 from partaking in this portion of its actions laid out for the wanderers of the upper air.

THIS WEAK, NERVOUS MOTHER

Tells How Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Restored Her Health.

Philadelphia, Pa. — "I was very weak, always tired, my back ached, and I felt sickly most of the time. I went to a doctor and he said I had nervous indigestion, which added to my weak condition kept me worrying most of the time—and he said if I could not stop that, I could not get well. I heard so much about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound my husband wanted me to try it. I took it for a week and felt a little better. I kept it up for three months, and I feel fine and can eat anything now without distress or nervousness."—Mrs. J. Worthline, 2842 North Taylor St., Philadelphia Pa.

The majority of mothers nowadays overdo, there are so many demands upon their time and strength; the result is invariably a weakened, run-down, nervous condition with headaches, backache, irritability and depression—and soon more serious ailments develop. It is at such periods in life that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound will restore a normal healthy condition, as it did to Mrs. Worthline.

The Royal Coachman.

The trouble when Queen Victoria first traveled by train (seventeen years after their institution in England), was not who should follow, but who should go before it. The chief royal coachman maintained that he must ride on the engine, as, though he could not drive the train, he ought to make a pretence of doing so. Finally it was decided that he should go on the pilot engine, which preceded the royal train. But the smuts from the engine played such havoc with his scarlet livery that the proud functionary abjured the honor after—

The Expenditure of $610,000,000

How the last Victory Loan was spent

BEFORE buying Victory Bonds again you may want to know how Canada used the money you loaned her last year.

Canada borrowed the money to carry on the war and to provide credits for Great Britain and our Allies.

CONSIDERABLY more than one-half of the Victory Loan 1918 was spent on our soldiers. This included $312,900,000, for paying them, feeding them, bringing them home, separation allowances to their dependents, maintenance of medical services and vocational training schools.

For Demobilization

$59,000,000 of the Victory Loan 1918 was paid on account of authorized Soldiers' gratuities.

$9,000,000 was spent at Halifax for relief and reconstruction after the disaster.

\+ \+ \+ \+ \+ \+

Other disbursements were not, strictly speaking, expenditures, but National Re-investments.

For Trade Extension

To Great Britain for example:

$173,500,000 was loaned for the purchase of our wheat and cereals.

$9,000,000 for our fish.

$30,000,000 for other Foodstuffs.

$2,900,000 for Canadian built ships.

$5,500,000 to pay other British obligations in Canada.

Making in all $220,900,000 advanced to Great Britain.

To our Allies, we loaned $8,200,000 for the purchase of Canadian foodstuffs, raw material and manufactured products.

The Re-investments will be paid back to Canada in due time, with interest.

These credits were absolutely necessary to secure the orders for Canada because cash purchases were impossible.

They have had the effect of tremendously helping agricultural and industrial workers to tide over the depression that would have followed the Armistice, had we not made these credit loans.

As far as money is concerned, 1919 has been, and is still—just as much a war year as 1918. Our main expenditures for war cannot be completed until well on into 1920. Thus another Victory Loan is necessary—Get ready to buy.

The Coal Question!

Notice to our Customers

The price of coal will advance at the mines at least 50c. per ton at the rate of 10c. per month beginning May 1st next.

Both the United States and Canadian railways, notwithstanding the advanced freight of last year, have not been able to meet running expenses for months past.

The probabilities are that freight rates will be advanced in the near future still higher. Therefore there is no cheap coal in sight.

We urge our customers to lay in their next winter's supply at once before we have to advance prices.

A Word of Advice.

Fire is one of the most destructive elements the human race has to contend with. Anything consumed by fire can never be replaced, it is a complete loss. The fire losses in the Province of Ontario are enormous, and experts tell us that seventy-five per cent. of all fire losses are caused by carelessness. Failure to take the necessary steps to prevent fire is carelessness. Failure to have your stove pipes and chimneys properly cleaned, and to have all rubbish and inflamable material removed to a place of safety is carelessness. Will you help to reduce the fire losses by having this done? It is to your own interest to see that it is done.

POPULAR SALESMAN IS CONGRATULATED

This Travelling Man's Customers All Have Noticed His Great Improvement

"Many of my customers on the road have congratulated me on my great improvement since I started taking Tanlac," said Wm. Goulding, a well known travelling salesman residing at 173 Macdonnell street, Toronto, Ontario.

"My stomach had been giving me trouble for a long time," he continued, "and I was getting worse. My appetite was poor and I was greatly distressed with gas on my stomach. I had a tight uncomfortable feeling after eating and would suffer from awful dizzy spells. My nerves were shattered and I was unable to rest well at all and I finally felt so miserable that I just had to stop work and go away for a rest.

While I was visiting my sister at Galt, she persuaded me to try Tanlac and the way it has helped me is simply wonderful. I feel better to-day than I have in years I am never troubled with indigestion and that tired, fagged out feeling is all gone. Tanlac has ended my stomach trouble and put my nerves in good shape my appetite is fine, I sleep well and have considerably more energy than I had before taking Tanlac."

Tanlac is sold in Napane at WALLACE'S Drug Store, in Camden East by R. J. OSTER, in Wagarville by S. JACKSON. (advt)

Vote for WOODS and the New Government

TO THE ELECTORS OF LENNOX

LADIES AND GENTLEMEN :—

Having been chosen by the Liberals of Lennox as their Candidate, and being unable to see you all personally, I am taking this means of appealing to you for your vote and influence in the Provincial Elections which take place on October 20th, 1919.

I would like to meet all of you and discuss the points in issue, but owing to the brief time between the announcement of the date of the election and the polling day, and the territory to be covered, I can scarcely meet each voter personally, and those I am unable to see will, I hope, understand my difficulties in these respects and accept this form of appeal for your votes and influence in this contest.

In the matter of Temperance I may say that my record on that great question has been one of continuous and consistent support. I am the representative of the Township of Richmond on the present Referendum Board, and have assisted in the organization of that Township. I have in such degree been identified during my whole life with temperance reform that I had scarcely thought doubt as to my loyalty to the cause could eminate from any quarter. But to my surprise I find that statements are being made charging me with hostility, or at least, indifference, in respect of the efforts of the temperance people to secure the passage of legislation to remedy the evils of the liquor traffic to the fullest degree within the jurisdiction of the Province.

In rebuttal of those statements I will say that I am in favor of the retention of the Ontario Temperance Act, and in marking my ballot will do so with four crosses in the No column on the questions submitted. Furthermore, if elected, I shall use my vote and influence in the Legislature to carry out the will of the people to the fullest extent possible.

Can there now be any doubt as to my position on this great question ?

Government by the people for the people has always been my motto.

Has that ever been, in any form, the policy of the Hearst Government ?

The platform of the Liberal party, on which I stand, in brief consists of :

1. Progressive temperance legislation to the fullest extent of Provincial jurisdiction in carrying out the will of the people.

2. The square deal for the farmer and the furtherance of his interests as our largest and most important class of producers. There should be no fixing of the prices of his products unless the prices of commodities in other lines of industry are also fixed, and on a basis fair to all.

3. Public ownership and developement of the Provincial waterpower and other natural resources of the Province for the benefit of the people of Ontario who own them, and not their exploitation by combines and profiteers. Our nickle deposits should never again be diverted, as they were during the first period of the war to the support of the enemy of our country. And our Provincial Government is deserving of unqualified condemnation for allowing that unfortunate and disgraceful incident to occur.

4. Investigate the high cost of living and do something to bring commodities to their proper value.

5. Decently and adequately look after the interests of the returned soldier.

6. The proper construction and maintenance of Provincial Highways and County Roads.

7. The imoprovement of the present educational system, social and moral reform.

8. The passing of election laws free from the manipulation of partisans. How many appeals were put in for this election under the present system.

These questions are all vital to the interests of the people of this constituency.

If I am elected they will receive my full advocacy and support. On this platform I appeal to the electors of Lennox for their votes and influence.

I regret that a third candidate has seen fit to enter the field. It was announced, with my approval, at the convention at which he was selected that I was prepared to accept the U. F. O. platform, which is practically identical with the platform on which I stand. In view of my long and close association with the farming industry in business relations, and my service in municipal affairs, I appeal to farmers as a class for their undivided support.

Just one word in conclusion. I was the Liberal nominee in 1918, when there was a vacancy in the riding owing to the death of the late T. G. Carscallen. The war was on and it was decided that, if possible, an election should be avoided, and I withdrew. Now however, a new situation presents itself, and after a fair consideration of my position relative thereto I feel justified in making this appeal, believing I am entitled to your support in this election.

Yours very truly,

CARLETON WOODS.

CARLETON WOODS
The People's Candidate

Extract from Mr. Dewart's address in Toronto on Tuesday :

"The present form of the referendum act, he said, is something for which Sir William Hearst himself, with the assistance of some other gentlemen who might be named are responsible. The premier should never have left the question so that the return of the bar would be possible.

"I am not responsible for the form of that question. If Hartley Dewart is returned no matter how Hearst has framed that question, the bar will never return. (Applause). I have made that statement from many a platform in Ontario and there is not a paper in Toronto that has reported it."

WE WILL MAIL THE NAPANEE EXPRESS TO ANY NEW SUBSCRIBER FROM NOW UNTIL THE END OF 1920 FOR ONE DOLLAR.

A WORD FROM THE NEW LEADER

The Provincial Liberal convention brought together a body of men and women from ninety-three constituencies, representative of all shades of Liberal thought in every portion of the Province. It has embodied in fully considered resolutions the policy and platform of the Liberal party upon the main Provincial issues.

But this convention has done more than merely pass resolutions. It has shown the dynamic power of Liberalism to accomplish what it proposes. As I said at the convention : "There is no rift in the Liberal party. We are all one party, standing strongly together, enunciating the principles which you have adopted, and which have brought us into the united position which we occupy to-day."

Our platform is broad enough, and just enough, and fair enough, to meet the problems of Industrial unrest and Agricultural dissatisfaction. In the large program of social reform which has been enunciated, there is work for all men and women. The Liberal party can and will clean up the errors of partisan administration, and give to ALL the people of the Province of Ontario a square deal.

The day of autocratic rule is nearing its end. We are prepared to trust the people and to give to all the people what public opinion demands, instead of what a coterie of overholding political tenants may dictate.

The day of election can not be long delayed. The watchword to-day must be "PREPAREDNESS." Enumeration has been commenced and will shortly be in progress throughout the whole Province. The right to vote—the ballot—is the one weapon that can and should be effectually used to bring about reform and re-establish popular Government. You must see to it in every constituency that no names are left off the list. WE can afford to trust ALL the people. The necessity for organization was never greater than it is to-day.

H. HARTLEY DEWART

Toronto, July 1st, 1919.

SOME PLANKS FROM THE LIBERAL PLATFORM

TEMPERANCE

Whereas the people of the Province of Ontario by referendum vote will decide the question of Provincial prohibition ;

And whereas after the referendum vote is taken it will be necessary to see that proper legislation is provided and the will of the people is carried out ;

Therefore be it resolved, that the Liberal party of the Province of Ontario, in convention assembled, affirms its attitude in favor of progressive temperance legislation to the fullest extent of the Provincial jurisdiction, and pledges itself to take all necessary steps to vigorously and effectively carry into effect the will of the majority of the people as expressed by the said referendum vote.

PUBLIC OWNERSHIP

This convention desires to place on record its belief that the interests of the people of Ontario will be advanced materially, and the public welfare safeguarded by steadfast resistance to any further encroachment of private franchise-holding corporations upon the public domain or the highways of the Province.

Believing as we do that much evil has been done by the alienation of public property to private ends, we pledge the Liberals of Ontario to the following measures :

1. The reservation of all water powers within the jurisdiction of the Government of Ontario for development so that the benefits of cheap and abundant electric energy may be extended to all parts of the Province.

2. The construction of a system of Hydro-radial railways throughout the Province wherever conditions warrant expectation of successful operation. In the construction of these railways there should be co-operation with the directors of the National railways so that duplication of service shall be avoided and the Dominion and Provincial authorities may work together for the development of Province-wide systems of transportation.

3. The elimination of private monopoly of the telephone service in the chief centres of population and over wide areas of rural Ontario, and the creation ultimately of a Provincial Telephone service.

4. Refusal to confer franchises hereafter upon private corporations for railway power, lighting, heating, telephone or other services requiring for their successful operation the use of the highways, or which come into competition with similar services owned and operated by public authorities.

RETURNED SOLDIERS AND SAILORS

Whereas the present security of Canada is due to the incomparable courage and achievement of our soldiers in the great war ;

And whereas it is incumbent upon this country to properly provide for those who have returned wounded from the war, and the dependants of those who have been killed ;

And whereas in many instances our returned soldiers would elect to settle upon land in Old Ontario in preference to the isolation of New Ontario ;

And whereas it is due to returned soldiers that every assistance be rendered them in securing employment upon demobilization ;

Be it resolved that this convention advocates :

(a) Adequate pensions for the wounded and for the dependents of soldiers and sailors who have been killed.

(b) Equal pension for equal disability. Minimum pension being $10 per month.

(c) Insurance for the enfeebled.

(d) Provision for settlement of soldiers on land in Old Ontario when desired.

(e) That we direct every energy towards vocational training and practical assistance to re-establish in civil life all our returned soldiers and sailors.

(f) In appointment to the civil service preference should be given to returned men.

SOCIAL AND MORAL REFORM AND PENSIONS FOR WIDOWS

Whereas it is in the interests of the State that, upon the death of a male parent, every surviving child shall receive the care of its mother (if living) until the child reaches at least adolescence ;

And whereas it is impossible for a widowed mother to earn sustenance for herself and children and at the same time discharge her duties as a parent ;

And whereas in certain cases, the wives of incarcerated persons are left with dependent children without means of support ;

Therefore be it resolved that the Liberal party of the Province of Ontario, in convention assembled, adopts the following policy :

1. The granting by the Government of Ontario to a widow with dependent children, ordinary resident in Ontario, of a pension from the public funds, sufficient to insure that such widow will not be compelled to neglect her children and leave the home in order to gain a livelihood ;

2. That unfortunate and destitute women with dependent children be similarly assisted under Government supervision ;

3. That where a man is sent to prison it is the duty of the state to allow him a certain wage for his work, and that such wage be paid over by the state to the wife of such incarcerated person for her maintainance and that of any dependent children.

4. That steps be taken of an effective nature to prevent the mortality which exists amongst infants and that more care and attention should be given to the feeble-minded.

5. The law amended so as to prevent men and women afflicted with hereditary diseases from marrying and propagating children.

HIGH COST OF LIVING

That having regard to the present high cost of living, and the increasing burden upon the working classes and those in receipt of limited incomes, due to the high cost of the necessaries of life, this convention condemns the Ontario Government for its failure to deal with this matter and its abandonment of the investigation and prosecution of the illegal combines formed to limit competition and to enhance prices.

We declare for the Government control and regulation of cold storage plants, abbatoirs and stock yards, the prosecution of the old combines—the thorough investigation of the combines and profiteers which have during the period of the war and are still making unfair and illegal profits at the expense of the consumer.

NON-PARTISAN ELECTION LAWS.

That, whereas the Liberal party has always stood for the franchise and the right to exercise it free from partisan interference, we condemn the provision of the Ontario Election Act amendments whereby partisan enumerators are appointed to prepare Provincial voters' lists at large and unnecessary expense. We propose the repeal of this law, and the enactment of such provisions as will provide for the preparation by the municipal authorities in all organized districts of the Ontario voters' lists, which shall include the names of all men and women entitled to vote at elections to the Legislative Assembly, and the appointments of the enumerators in unorganized districts by the district judges.

AGRICULTURE.

Recognizing the important position occupied by the Agricultural Industry, and the difficulties which confront it, be it resolved :

1. A system of rural credits be established to provide long term money at a low rate of interest.

2. That Agricultural schools with demonstration farms be established to continue the education of rural and urban boys and girls after leaving the public schools.

3. That the spirit of co-operation between producer and consumer be encouraged with a view to cheapening the cost of production as well as that of distribution.

HIGHWAYS

Whereas the automobile traffic has revolutionized the requirements of the Province of Ontario in the matter of highways ;

And whereas the tractor and auto truck are now important factors in the production and transportation of farm produce ;

Therefore be it resolved that this convention stands for the immediate and vigorous prosecution of the County Roads system with increased grants for the construction and maintainance, so as to remove as far as possible the present unfair burden from the rural municipalities ;

And this convention is in favor of Provincial grants toward the construction and maintainance of county roads ;

And further that Provincial highways construction should not be gone on with until the route, quality, and kind of road to be built, with plans and specifications showing the estimated cost thereof, are submitted to and passed on by the Legislature

EDUCATION

Whereas in the opinion of this convention, a new era has commenced with the close of the great war, and education should rank first in the materials for reconstruction ;

Annd whereas a more progressive and adequate educational policy is urgently needed ;

Be it resolved that the Liberal party in the Province of Ontario, in convention assembled, commits itself to a vigorous and progressive policy to meet modern conditions.

1. That the time has come for a radical change in our whole school system.

2. That simplicity and efficiency in all our courses of studies, which has long disappeared from our school curriculum, should now be restored by the abplition of all non-essentials to a practical education.

3. The greatest possible reduction in the burden of homework and the abolition of public written examinations should be undertaken at the earliest practical period.

4. A much larger proportion of teacher's salaries be paid directly by the Province, and a more adequate pension allotment be provided for.

5. That full provision should be made for the adequate teaching of agriculture at convenient local centres.

6. That the power of issuing commands dealing with the school curriculum and our educational system generally, and of arbitrarily changing the same to suit the passing whim of some Government official be taken from the Department of Education. All power to alter in anyway the practice or the theory of educational work in this Province be placed where it belongs—in the hands of the Provincial legislature.

PROVINCIAL INDUSTRIAL COUNCIL

That labor questions are of paramount importance in these times of industrial unrest and world upheaval, particularly matters relating to the maximum hours of the labor day, insurance against sickness and unemployment, old age pensions, and the harmonizing of the interest of employer and employed.

Therefore be it resolved that this convention places itself on record as favoring the passage of legislation to give effect to such proposals, and, generally by means of a labor department, to keep intouch with the labor situation with a viewto avoiding disputes between employers an employed.

And further that the Government create a Provincial Industrial council consisting of an equal number of employees and employers, men and women, together with a chairman appointed by the Government, to consider and report on the causes of the present unrest and the steps necessary to safeguard and promote the best interest of employees, employers and State

ADVANCED LABOR POLICY

A general minimum wage for both men and women to apply generally to all industry throughout the Province.

The appointment of a permanent commission to inquire continuously into the cost of living in various localities and from time to time, with power to increase the minimum wage to such a rate as will, under all conditions, provide a respectable living to all wage earners.

A law fixing the eight hour day for all industrial occupations, throughout the Province, as applied to both men and women.

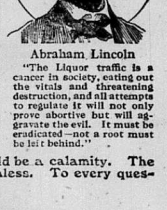
Has Done Good Work

Ontario Temperance Act
A Great Benefit to Province

THE Ontario Temperance Act has reduced crime by over one-third and drunkenness in public has practically disappeared.

Alcoholic insanity has disappeared.

Gold cures and alcoholic institutes for treating alcoholism have been closed for lack of patients.



Abraham Lincoln

"The Liquor traffic is a cancer in society, eating out the vitals and threatening destruction, and all attempts to regulate it will not only prove abortive but will aggravate the evil. It must be eradicated—not a root must be left behind."

Ontario has been saved an annual drink bill of $36,000,000, enough to pay our share of interest on the War Debt.

Many victims of alcohol three years ago, thank God to-day for the Ontario Temperance Act.

To repeal the Ontario Temperance Act would be a calamity. The amendments would make it practically worthless. To every question on the Referendum vote NO.

Drink is a Cancer

Doctors, Alienists, Criminologists, Insurance Actuaries, Statesmen, Generals, Big Business Men, and Social Workers agree that alcohol as a beverage is a racial poison and a national curse.

British Columbia, Alberta, Saskatchewan, Manitoba, Quebec (excepting beer and wine), New Brunswick, Nova Scotia, Prince Edward Island and Newfoundland have enacted prohibition.

The United States is permanently "dry."

France has abolished absinthe, Scotland has now a local option law, England is initiating a great campaign for temperance reform. The movement is world wide.

Ontario must go forward, or be left behind, but be careful

Long Live The King

By MARY ROBERTS RINEHART

COPYRIGHT, 1917, BY GEORGE H. DORAN COMPANY ALL RIGHTS RESERVED COPYRIGHT, 1917, BY MARY ROBERTS RINEHART

"Why can't you come home to supper with me?" asked the senior Pierrette. "Would your folks kick up a row?"

"I beg your pardon?"

"Would your family object?"

"There is only one person who would mind," reflected the crown prince, aloud, "and she will be angry, anyhow. I—do you think your mother will be willing?"

"Willing? Sure she will! My governess—but I'll fix her. She's a German, and they're always cranky. Anyhow, it's my birthday. I'm always allowed a guest on birthdays."

So home together, gayly chatting, went the two children, along the cobble-paved streets of the ancient town, past old churches that had been sacked and pillaged by the very ancestors of one of them, taking short cuts through narrow passages that twisted and wormed their way between; and so, finally, to the door of a tall building where, from the concierge's room beside the entrance, came a reek of stewing garlic.

Neither of the children had noticed the unwonted silence of the streets, which had, almost suddenly, succeeded the noise of the carnival. What few passers-by they had seen had been hurrying in the direction of the palace. Twice they had passed soldiers, with lanterns, and once one had stopped and flashed a light on them.

"Well, old sport!" said Bobby in English, "anything you can do for me?"

The soldier had passed on, muttering at the insolence of American children. The two youngsters laughed consumedly at the witticism.

The concierge was out. His niece admitted them, and went back to her interrupted cooking. The children hurried up the winding stone staircase, with its iron rail and its gas lantern, to the second floor.

In the sitting room, the sour-faced governess was darning a hole in a small stocking. She looked at the clock.

"You are fifteen minutes late," she snapped, and bit the darning thread—not with rage, but because she had forgotten her scissors.

"I'm sorry, but you see—"

"Whom have you there?"

"A friend of mine," said Bobby, not a whit daunted.

The governess put down the stocking and rose. In so doing, she caught her first real glimpse of Ferdinand William Otto, and she staggered back.

"Holy Saints!" she said, and went white. Then she stared at the boy, and her color came back. "For a moment," she muttered "—but no. He is not so tall, nor has he the manner. Yes, he is much smaller!"

Which proves that, whether it wears it or not, royalty is always measured to the top of a crown.

In the next room Bobby's mother was arranging candles on a birthday cake in the center of the table. Pepy had iced the cake herself, and had forgotten one of the "b's" in "Bobby" so that the cake really read: "Boby —XII."

However, it looked delicious, and inside had been baked a tiny black china doll and a new American penny, with Abraham Lincoln's head on it. The penny was for good fortune, but the doll was a joke of Pepy's, Bobby being aggressively masculine.

Bobby, having passed the outpost, carried the rest of the situation by assault. Mrs. Thorpe saw Ferdinand William Otto, and went over, somewhat puzzled, with her hand out. "I am very glad Bobby brought you!" she said. "He has so few little friends—"

Then she stopped, for the prince had brought his heels together sharply, and bending over her hand, had kissed it, exactly as he kissed his Aunt Annunciata's when he went to have tea with her. Mrs. Thorpe was fairly startled, not at the kiss, but at the grace with which the tribute was rendered.

Then she looked down, and it restored her composure to find that Ferdinand William Otto, too, had turned eyes toward the cake. He was, after all, only a hungry small boy. With quick tenderness she stooped and kissed him gravely on the forehead.

Caresses were strange to Ferdinand William Otto. His warm little heart leaped and pounded. At that moment, he would have died for her!

Mr. Thorpe came home a little late. He kissed Bobby twelve times, and one to grow on. He shook hands absently with the visitor, and gave the Frauleln the evening paper—an extravagance on which he insisted, although one could read the news for nothing by going to the cafe on the corner. Then he drew his wife aside.

"Look here!" he said. "Don't tell Bobby—no use exciting him, and of course it's not our funeral, anyhow—but there's a report that the crown prince has been kidnaped. And that's not all. The old king is dying!"

"How terrible!"

"Worse than that. The old king gone and no crown prince! It may mean almost any sort of trouble! I've closed up at the park for the night." His arm around his wife, he looked through the doorway to where Bobby and Ferdinand were counting the candles. "It's made me think pretty hard," he said. "Bobby mustn't go around alone the way he's been doing. All Americans here are considered millionaires. If the crown prince could go, think how easy—"

His arm tightened around his wife, and together they went into the birthday feast. Ferdinand William Otto was hungry. He ate eagerly—chicken, fruit compote, potato salad—again shades of the court physicians, who fed him at night a balanced ration of milk, egg, and zwieback! Bobby also ate busily, and conversation languished.

Then the moment came when, the first cravings appeased, they sat back in their chairs while Pepy cleared the table and brought in a knife to cut the cake. Mr. Thorpe had excused himself for a moment. Now he came back, with a bottle wrapped in a newspaper, and sat down again.

"I thought," he said, "as this is a real occasion, not exactly Robert's coming of age, but marking his arrival at years of discretion, the period when he ceases to be a small boy and becomes a big one, we might drink a toast to it."

"Hebert!" objected the big boy's mother.

"A teaspoonful each, honey," he begged. "It changes it from a mere supper to a festivity."

He poured a few drops of wine into the children's glasses, and filled them up with water. Then he filled the others, and sat smiling, this big young man, who had brought his loved ones across the sea, and was trying to make them happy in a flight of stone stairs, above a concierge's bureau that smelled of garlic.

"First," he said, "I believe it is customary to toast the king. Friends, I give you the good king and brave soldier, Ferdinand of Livonia."

They stood up to drink it, and even Pepy had a glass.

Ferdinand William Otto was on his feet first. He held his glass up in his right hand, and his eyes shone. He knew what to do. He had seen the king's health drunk any number off times.

"To his majesty, Ferdinand of Livonia," he said solemnly. "God keep the king!"

Over their glasses Mrs. Thorpe's eyes met her husband's. How they trained their children here!

But Ferdinand William Otto had not finished. "I give you," he said, in his clear young treble, holding his glass, "the president of the United States—the president!"

"The president!" said Mr. Thorpe.

They drank again, except the Frauleln, who disapproved of children being made much of, and only pretended to sip her wine.

"Bobby," said his mother, with a catch in her voice, "haven't you something to suggest—as a toast?"

Bobby's eyes were on the cake; he came back with difficulty.

"Well," he meditated, "I guess—would 'home' be all right?"

"Home!" they all said, a little shakily, and drank to it.

Home! To the Thorpes, a little house on a shady street in America; to the Frauleln, a thatched cottage in the mountains of Germany and an old mother; to Pepy, the room in a tenement where she went at night; to Ferdinand William Otto, a formal suite of apartments in the palace, surrounded by pomp, ordered by rule and precedent, hardened by military discipline, and unsoftened by family love, save for the grim affection of the old king.

Home!

After all, Pepy's plan went astray, for the Frauleln got the china baby, and Ferdinand William Otto the Lincoln penny.

"That," said Bobby's father, "is a Lincoln penny, young man. It bears the portrait of Abraham Lincoln. Have you ever heard of him?"

The prince looked up. Did he not know the "Gettysburg address" by heart?

"Yes, sir," he said. "The—my grandfather thinks that President Lincoln was a very great man."

"One of the world's greatest. I hardly thought, over here—" Mr. Thorpe paused and looked speculatively at the boy. "You'd better keep that penny where you won't lose it," he said soberly. "It doesn't hurt us to try to be good. If you're in trouble, think of the difficulties Abraham Lincoln surmounted. If you want to be great think how great he was." He was a trifle ashamed of his own earnestness. "All that for a penny, young man!"

The festivities were taking a serious turn. There was a little packet at each plate, and now Bobby's mother reached over and opened hers.

"Oh!" she said, and exhibited a gaudy tissue paper bonnet. Everybody had one. Mr. Thorpe's was a dunce's cap, and Frauleln's a giddy Pierrette of black and white. Bobby had a military cap. With eager fingers Ferdinand William Otto opened his; he had never tasted this delicious paper cap joy before.

It was a crown, a sturdy bit of gold paper, cut into points and set with red paste jewels—a gem of a crown. He was charmed. He put it on his head, with the unconsciousness of childhood, and posed delightedly.

The Frauleln looked at Prince Ferdinand William Otto, and slowly the color left her lean face. She stared. It was he, then, and none other. Stupid, not to have known at the beginning! He, the crown prince, here in the home of these barbarous Americans, when, by every plan that had been made, he should now be in the hands of those who would dispose of him.

"I give you," said Mr. Thorpe, raising his glass toward his wife, "the giver of the feast. Boys, up with you!"

It was then that the Frauleln, making an excuse, slipped out of the room.

CHAPTER XVIII.

The King is Dead.

Now at last the old king's hour had come. Mostly he slept, as though his body, eager for its long rest, had already given up the struggle. Stimulants, given by his devoted physician, had no effect. Other physicians there were, a group of them, but it was Doctor Weiderman who stood by the bed and waited.

Father Gregory, his friend of many years, had come again from Etzel, and it was he who had administered the sacrament. The king had roused for it, and had smiled at the father.

"So!" he said, almost in a whisper, "you would send me clean! It is hard to scour an old kettle."

Doctor Weiderman bent over the bed. "Majesty," he implored, "if there is anything we can do to make you comfortable—"

"Give me Hubert's picture," said the king. When his fingers refused to hold it, Annunciata came forward swiftly and held it before him. But his heavy eyes closed. With more intuition than might have been expected of her, the archduchess laid it on the white coverlet, and placed her father's hand on it.

The two sisters of mercy stood beside the bed, and looked down at the quiet figure.

"I should wish to die so," whispered the elder. "A long life, filled with many deeds, and then to sleep away!"

"A long life, full of many sorrows!" observed the younger one, her eyes full of tears. "He has outlived all that he loved."

"Except the little Otto."

Their glances met, for even here there was a question.

As if their thought had penetrated the haze which is, perhaps, the mist that hides from us the gates of heaven, the old king opened his eyes.

"Otto!" he said. "I—wish—"

Annunciata bent over him. "He is coming, father," she told him, with white lips.

She slipped to her knees beside the bed, and looked up to Doctor Weiderman with appealing eyes.

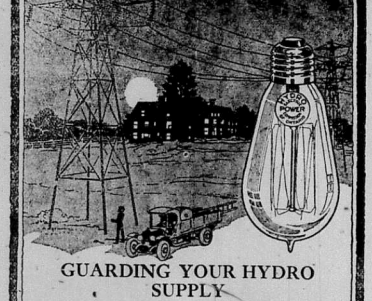
"I am afraid," she whispered. "Can you not—?"

He shook his head. She had asked a question in her glance, and he had answered. The crown prince was gone. Perhaps the search would be successful. Could he not be held, then, until the boy was found? And Doctor Weiderman had answered "No."

In the antechamber the council waited, standing and without speech. But in an armchair beside the door to the king's room the chancellor sat, his face buried in his hands. In spite of precautions, in spite of everything, the blow had fallen. The crown prince, to him at once son and sovereign, the little crown prince, was gone. And his old friend, his comrade of many years, lay at his last hour.

Now he waited for the king's death. Waited numbly. For, with the tolling of St. Stefan's bell would rise the cry for the new king.

And there was no king.



GUARDING YOUR HYDRO SUPPLY

At midnight the same as at noon; in January the same as in July, Nature's tireless force generates Hydro Power and places it at your command.

The Hydro-Electric Power Commission of Ontario has made possible its transmission. Regular inspections are made of transmission and feeder lines to prevent interruptions in service from avoidable causes. At the generating plants, and in this community itself the most modern appliances have been installed to prevent breaks in the circuit. But should some unavoidable occurrence impair the service, provisions have been made to restore it in the quickest possible time. The Commission, in its endeavor to aid the users of Hydro Power to secure the most satisfactory service, recommends the use of HYDRO Quality Lamps for home illumination.

HYDRO Quality Lamps are tested in the laboratories of the Commission for brilliancy, current consumption and durability. These vital features are assured to users of HYDRO Quality Lamps.

"FRUIT-A-TIVES" Conquered Dyspepsia and Restored His Health.

MR. ROBERT NEWTON.

Little Bras d'Or, C.B.

"I was a terrible sufferer from Dyspepsia and Constipation for years. I had pain after eating, belching gas, constant headaches, and did not sleep well at night. I lost so much weight —going from 185 pounds to 146 pounds—that I became alarmed and saw several doctors who, however, did me no good. Finally, a friend told me to try 'Fruit-a-tives'.

In a week, there was improvement. The constipation was corrected; and soon I was free of pain, headaches and that miserable feeling that accompanies Dyspepsia. I continued to take this splendid fruit medicine and now I am well, strong and vigorous". ROBERT NEWTON.

50c. a box, 6 for $2.50, trial size 25c. At all dealers or sent postpaid on receipt of price by Fruit-a-tives Limited, Ottawa.

In the little room where the sisters kept their medicines, so useless now, Hedwig knelt at the prie-dieu and prayed.

The king roused again. "Mettlich?" he asked.

The elder sister tiptoed to the door and opened it. The council turned, dread on their faces. She placed a hand on the chancellor's shoulder.

"His majesty has asked for you."

When he looked up, dazed, she bent down and took his hand.

"Courage!" she said quietly.

The chancellor stood a second inside the door. Then he went to the side of the bed, and knelt, his lips to the cold, white hand on the counterpane.

"Sire!" he choked. "It is I—Mettlich."

The king looked at him, and placed his hand on the bowed gray head. Then his eyes turned to Annunciata and rested there. It was as if he saw her, not as the embittered woman of late years, but as the child of the woman he had loved.

"A good friend, and a good daughter," he said clearly. "Few men die so fortunate, and fewer sovereigns." His hand moved from Mettlich's head, and rested on the photograph.

The elder sister leaned forward and touched his wrist. "Doctor!" she said sharply.

Doctor Weiderman came first, the others following. They grouped around the bed. Then the oldest of them, who had brought Annunciata into the world, touched her on the shoulder.

"Madame!" he said. "Madame, I—his majesty has passed away."

Mettlich staggered to his feet, and took a long look at the face of his old sovereign and king.

In the meantime, things had been happening in the room where the council waited. The council free of the restraint of the chancellor's presence, had fallen into low-voiced consultation. What was to be done? They knew already the rumors of the streets, and were helpless before them. They had done what they could. But the boy was gone, and the city rising. Already the garrison of the fortress had been ordered to the palace, but it could not arrive before midnight. Friese had questioned the wisdom of it, at that, and was for fight as soon as the king died. Bayerl, on the other hand, urged a stand, in the hope that the crown prince would be found.

Their voices, lowered at first, rose acrimoniously; almost they penetrated to the silent room beyond. On to the discussion came Nikky Larisch, covered with dust and spotted with froth from his horse. He entered without ceremony, his boyish face drawn and white, his cap gone, his eyes staring.

"The chancellor?" he said.

Some one pointed to the room beyond.

Nikky hesitated. Then, being young and dramatic, even in tragedy, he unbuckled his sword belt and took it off, placing it on a table.

"Gentlemen," he said, "I have come to surrender myself."

The council stared.

"For what reason?" demanded Marschall coldly.

"I believe it is called high treason." He closed his eyes for a moment. "It is because of my negligence that this thing has happened. He was in my charge, and I left him."

No one said anything. The council looked at a loss, rather like a flock of sheep confronting some strange animal.

"I would have shot myself," said Nikky Larisch, "but it was too easy."

Then, rather at a loss as to the exact etiquette of arresting one's self, he bowed slightly and waited.

The door into the king's bedchamber opened. The chancellor came through, his face working. It closed behind him.

"Gentlemen of the council," he said. "It is my duty—my duty—to announce—" His voice broke; his grizzled chin quivered; tears rolled down his cheeks. "Friends," he said pitifully, "our good king—my old comrade—is dead!"

The birthday supper was over. It had ended with an American ice cream, brought in carefully by Pepy, because of its expensiveness. They had cut the cake with "Boby" on the top, and the crown prince had eaten far more than was good for him.

He sat, fingering the Lincoln penny and feeling extremely full and very contented.

Then, suddenly, from a far off church a deep-toned bell began to toll slowly.

Prince Ferdinand William Otto caught it. St. Stefan's bell! He sat up and listened. The sound was faint; one felt it rather than heard it, but the slow booming was unmistakable. He got up and pushed his chair back.

Other bells had taken it up, and now the whole city seemed alive with bells—bells that swung sadly from side to side, as if they said over and over: Alas, alas!"

Something like panic seized Ferdinand William Otto. Some calamity had happened. Some one was—perhaps his grandfather.

He turned an appealing face to Mrs. Thorpe. "I must go," he said. "I do not wish to appear rude, but something is wrong. The bells—"

Pepy had been listening, too. Her broad face worked. "They mean one thing," she said slowly. "I have heard it said many times. When St. Stefan's tells like that, the king is dead!"

"No! No!" cried Ferdinand William Otto and ran madly out of the door.

* * * * * *

While the birthday supper was at its height, in the bureau of the concierge sat old Adelbert, heavy and despairing. That very day had he learned to what use the committee would put the information he had given them, and his old heart was dead within him. One may not be loyal for seventy years, and then easily become a traitor.

Then, at seven o'clock, something happened.

The concierge's niece had gone, leaving the supper ready cooked on the back of the stove. Old Adelbert sat alone, and watched the red bars of the stove fade to black. By that time it was done, and he was of the damned. The crown prince, who was of an age with the American lad upstairs, the crown prince was in the hands of his enemies. He, old Adelbert, had done it.

And now it was forever too late. Terrible thoughts filled his mind. He could not live thus, yet he could not die. The daughter must have the pension. He must live, a traitor, he on whose breast the king himself had pinned a decoration.

He wore his new uniform, in honor of the day. Suddenly he felt that he could not wear it any longer. He had no right to any uniform. He who had sold his country was of no country.

He went slowly out and up the staircase, dragging his wooden leg painfully from step to step. He heard the concierge come in below, his heavy footsteps re-echoed through the building. Inside the door he called furiously to his niece. Old Adelbert heard him strike a match to light the gas.

THERE IS ONLY ONE GENUINE ASPIRIN

Only Tablets with "Bayer Cross" are Aspirin—No others!

BAYER

If you don't see the "Bayer Cross" on the tablets, refuse them—they are not Aspirin at all.

Your druggist gladly will give you the genuine "Bayer Tablets of Aspirin" because genuine Aspirin now is made by Canadians and owned by a Canadian Company.

There is not a cent's worth of German interest in Aspirin, all rights being purchased from the U. S. Government.

During the war, acid imitations were sold as Aspirin in pill boxes and various other containers. But now you can get genuine Aspirin, plainly stamped with the safety "Bayer Cross."—Aspirin proved safe by millions for Headache, Toothache, Earache, Rheumatism, Lumbago, Colds, Neuritis, and Pain generally.

Handy tin boxes of 12 tablets—also larger "Bayer" packages.

Aspirin is the trade mark (registered in Canada), of Bayer Manufacture of Monoaceticacidester of Salicylicacid.

Quaint Formalities.

"In those four years (at the front) I found my manhood"—so said the Prince of Wales recently at the Guildhall, where he received the freedom of the city. The workers who rushed out of offices to see him drive through the streets were pleased to see this pleasant, open-faced, and notably manly young fellow.

Everyone had been struck by the development that has taken place in the prince since he went to the war. He has lost his old shyness, and shows that he can very well take care of himself in any circumstances. In the remarkable interview he had with the Labor leaders at Lambeth the other day he displayed a great deal of readiness and quick intelligence. To point the difference one can recall his demeanor when he was crowned as Prince of Wales at Carnarvon years ago.

The welcome given him in the streets of London was at once cordial and spontaneous. The picturesque ceremony at the Guildhall was attended by quite a big rally of members of the prince's family. There were a lot of brilliant uniforms and quaint municipal costumes.

One of the queer formalities was the reading of the voucher of the prince's patrimony — a declaration that he is "the son born in lawful wedlock of a certain citizen and fishmonger, his Majesty King George V." He was presented for the freedom by the warden of the Fishmongers' Company.

FROM CHERRY-BLOSSOM LAND

The Japanese Give Good Example

It is a proverb of Cherry Blossom Land that beauty of face and figure depend on womanly health.

What is it that makes our Canadian women often pale, sallow-faced, with dark circles under the eyes, and very often old at forty-five when they should be in their prime?

Women suffer in girlhood from backache, spine-ache and headaches, followed by irregularities and as a result diseases of the womanly organs are more common than any one but a physician in active practice could suppose.

After long experience in the treatment of women's diseases, Dr. Pierce evolved a vegetable tonic and corrective which he called Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. This is a purely vegetable preparation, without a particle of alcohol contained in it.

When a woman complains of backache, dizziness or pain—when everything looks black before her eyes—a dragging feeling, with nervousness, she should turn to this "temperance" herbal tonic. It can be obtained in almost every drug store in the land and the ingredients are printed in plain English on the wrapper. Put up in tablets or liquid. Dr. Pierce, of Invalids' Hotel, Buffalo, N. Y., will send a trial size of the tablets for ten cents.

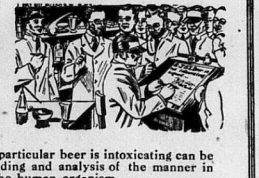
2.51% BEER—the Beer of the Ballot—is not Intoxicating



A determination as to whether or not a particular beer is intoxicating can be reached only by a proper understanding and analysis of the manner in which the alcohol in such beer affects the human organism.

Beer containing 2.51% alcohol by weight has been proven non-intoxicating by actual experiments, scientific tests, thorough research.

Fourteen specially qualified experts, testifying before the United States Circuit Courts of Appeals, were unanimous in agreeing that beer containing even as high as 2.75% alcohol by weight (or .24% stronger than the beer of the Referendum Ballot) was non-intoxicating.

These experts were Professors of Chemistry, Toxicology, Therapeutics, Nerve Specialists, Physical Training Instructors, Medical Doctors and specialists in charge of city departments where alcoholics were cared for. Experiments were conducted upon twenty-four men chosen from various walks of life—medical students, laborers, mechanics, business executives, clerks in banks and brokers' offices, artists, writers and professional men.

The experiments proved conclusively that beer of 2.75% alcoholic content strength could not possibly be intoxicating—not the slightest signs of intoxication were shown by any of the subjects.

In view of the sworn statements of these experts, based upon the results of their experiments, that beer containing 2.75% alcohol by weight is non-intoxicating, it must follow that 2.51% beer, the Beer of the Ballot, is non-intoxicating.

It is the strong conviction of the Citizens' Liberty League that—as no harmful results can possibly come from drinking 2.51% beer —then there is no fair or just reason why the general sale of beer of this quality should not be permitted.

Unite with the Citizens' Liberty League in its earnest, sincere endeavor to obtain moderate Temperence Legislation.

The Navy League of Canada

Its Vital Work for Canada

THE Navy League of Canada fosters the splendid spirit that made the British the greatest of maritime nations. It organizes loyal Canadians so that practical work may be accomplished for the development of Canada's direct interests at sea.

The human side of Canada's Mercantile Marine is the League's especial interest—training Canadian boys to become the sturdy type of British manhood that won its laurels again and again in the great war—relieving distress among victims of the submarine warfare—and giving the sailor ashore an alternative place for rest and recreation to the places of doubtful entertainment that abound in port.

Why the $500,000 is needed

On Nelson Day, October 21st, starts a 3-day campaign throughout the Dominion to raise $500,000 necessary to finance the coming year's work of the Navy League of Canada. Help the work by giving liberally. As a nation whose expanding trade will depend on exports, we must educate our boys to the highest type of seamanship so that they will be equipped to man our ships to carry our exports to foreign markets.

You will do your part in this work by contributing liberally to the support of the Boy's Navy Brigades, the organizations by which the Navy League trains boys for our merchant marine.

Every dollar subscribed will be used to further the work of the Navy League in Canada—the work in which you are personally interested as a patriotic citizen. Help by giving.

FARMERS SELECT A CANDIDATE

Mr. Claude B. Brethen was selected as U. F. O. candidate at 2 o'clock on Tuesday. A public meeting was held in the town hall, Napanee, for the purpose of naming an Independant Farmers' Candidate to stand as the Lennox farmers' choice at the coming Provincial election.

The hall was packed with enthusiastic farmers. Mr. MacMillan, of Toronto, addressed the meeting, after which Mr. M. N. Empey, the chairman, called for nominations. Two or three other names were at first advanced, but later withdrawn, and Mr. C. B. Brethen, of Ernestown township was unanimously chosen by the farmers as their candidate.

In putting Mr. Brethen into the field as the Independant Candidate the farmers of the county of Lennox have shown good judgment and foresight. Not only have they selected a clean, practical, young farmer, but they have picked a man gifted with first-class speaking ability, and an excellent education; a man who has never in the past been affiliated with either the Conservative or the Liberal parties, and yet a young man who is at the present time taking a very active part in the present fight for prohibition.

As prohibition is the foremost plank in the platform of the U.F.O., a plank on which all farmers are standing solid, and since on the temperance question there is at the present time, wide cleavage in the ranks of both the Conservative and the Liberal parties, it is natural that the Independent Farmers are confident that their candidate thus selected will meet with enthusiastic support throughout the county. Especially is this expected of those who wish to get the intricate temperance ballot, and the results of the coming prohibitive vote rightly interpreted by the Ontario Legislature.

TO THE ELECTORS OF LENNOX

The United Farmers of the county of Lennox have chosen me to be their candidate at the coming Provincial election. One reason for such a step is perhaps because Canadians from country and town are every day seeing more and more clearly, that if the Canadian people are to swim this deluge of national debt and after-war-unrest they must protect the farming industry of their country. More and more Canadians are seeing that on agricultural prosperity depends the extent of business transacted in country and town, that on agricultural prosperity depends the necessities of life, the cost of food, the cost of labour, more and more the fair-minded Canadian, be he Liberal or Conservative, town dweller or country dweller, is beginning to see that it is no longer safe to trust the welfare of this industry on which our very bread and butter depends to the cheap concern which party politicians have always in the past given to this vital industry, agriculture. More and more we are seeing that as surely as day follows night, Canada will go down and out in the markets of the world, if her farms, already weakened by depleted labor are left to the sole guidance of representatives whose main concern is not the prosperity of the farmer, but whose highest aspiration is to follow meekly wherever the halter strings of party leads them.

Convinced that Canada's future depends upon immediate legislation for her farmers I have, as a farmer, accepted the nomination of the United Farmers of this county. Having no party ties to relinquish I feel that I can, on behalf of the United Farmers conscientiously ask for the undivided support of every woman and man in Lennox who has the welfare of prohibition, good roads, agricultural prosperity, and Canada's future under his heart than the old ties of party.

Thanking you I remain,

Yours respectfully,

C. B. BRETHEN.
